IS A GRADUATE'S 'MORTARBOARD' HAT A TRADITION DATING TO OPERATIVE MASONS?

The meaning behind wearing a mortarboard hat at graduation" slipped through the cracks and was lost over the generations," according to Russel Herner in his book, "Cathedrals Built By The Masons."

In the book he describes many customs and traditions of Operative Masonry. He notes that a skullcap was a small brimless cloth cap typically worn in the ancient stonemason's day. Taken together, the mortarboard (a flat, square piece of wood on which the stonemason placed his wet mortar) and the skull cap look remarkably similar to the modern graduation cap. What if the modern graduation cap came into being as the result of medieval Master Masons graduating from apprenticeship schools? Brother Herner suggests this possible scenario:

"Let's crown Reg "King of the Master Masons' with a king's crown." Said one of the guests.

"No, we can't do that. He's not a king."

"Well then let's crown him with his own mason's mortarboard and use it as a crown of our craft and authority"

So the old mortarboard was washed and tacked to Reg's skullcap and placed upside down on his head. "King of the Master Masons!" they all cheered and toasted their drinks to him in celebration.

Could such a ceremony have led to a tradition among other apprenticeship schools? Over time, Brother Herner writes, colleges and universities may have embellished the mortarboard hats with modifications and decorations, such as tassels and colors. "I believe the origin of this age-old tradition of wearing a mortarboard hat at graduation ceremonies has been rediscovered," he said.

QUOTE OF THE MONTH

I violate no secret when I say that one of the greatest values in Masonry is that it affords an opportunity for men of all walks of life to meet on common ground where all men are equal and have one common interest.

DID YOU KNOW?

A Full Masonic Name

Hiram Abiff Boaz was born on December 18, 1866, at Murray, Kentucky. He moved to Texas at an early age. In 1891 he was ordained a Methodist minister and in 1922 he was elected a Bishop of the church.

He became a member of Granger Lodge No. 677 of Texas. When he received his third degree, a large number of brothers attended because of the unusual name of the new member. He served as Grand Chaplain of Texas in 1953.

This brother had many interesting experiences connected with his name. He never tired of telling of the time he was traveling in the Holy Land and arrived at a Mosque in Hebron on the wrong day for visitors. When he told then his name was Boaz, it seemed as if he had given a magic password. Others were not admitted that day, but they opened the gates for him.

MASONIC ETIQUETE

In an effort to provide Masonic Education, we will continue to present points of Masonic Etiquette which may be new to some and reminders to others.

Shouldering the Work: It is good Masonic Etiquette to accept a request made in the name of the lodge if it is within your abilities.

Why? A lodge is a working "beehive of industry". A request made of you from your lodge acknowledges that the lodge trusts you to competently fulfill such a request based upon your knowledge.

Salute: Some lodges (not all) offer salutes to the Master. Each of the brethren will salute the Master when they enter and when they leave their Masonic Mother lodge room or any other Masonic lodge room. Some lodges offer salutes to the Senior Warden.

Why? The Masonic etiquette of saluting the Master is your renewed pledge of fealty and service. It is your public display of decorum before all other brothers of you obligation. It shows your courteous respect for all that the Master stands for and shows that you acknowledge his authority. Salutes should reflect your heart-felt respect for all that for which he stands. The salute to the Master is your pledge of honor and service, your publicly shown obligation. A lazy sloppy or improper salute is to be Masonically impolite and thus, to exhibit poor Masonic etiquette.

WHAT KIND OF A MASON ARE YOU?

A lot of Masons are like wheelbarrows-no good unless pushed.

Some are like trailers-they have to be pulled.

Some are like kites-if you don't keep a string on them they fly away.

Some are like balloons-full of wind and ready to blow up. Some are like footballs-you can't tell which way they will bounce.

And then, some are like a good watch-open face, pure gold, quietly busy, and full of good work.
